Gwen is The Nightingale, a vigilante Punisher-style (with a van that kept reminding me of the A-Team's), who, in her own words, "rush(es) in where justice fears to tread". Bad guys beware! She's also trying to live a normal life, with the dating and such – although goofy potential boyfriend Dan didn't seem that good a catch to me. I mean, who goes on a date and drinks water? You can't trust a person like that. It's like when you go out to a restaurant with a girl and she orders a salad. Makes you feel kinda guilty when you're rending flesh from the ribs you ordered... I digress.

Then again, who goes on a date with the intention of slaying a mob boss, while on said date? Not exactly normal behaviour. Hey, I guess vigilantes have to eat, too.

This film does feature what is possibly the greatest question in a movie ever: "Do you have any classes on how to kick ninja butt?"

Lightweight, frothy and fun, Girl With Gun wasn't the Ms .45 I was assuming it might be from the title. But it was a bit of a giggle, and given its 14 minute run time, I wasn't bored. Basically, a bit of fun.
